U. S. Army Signal Corps Photo

ENGLAND ASKS WHAT'S WRONG

Parliament Inquest Asked As Result of Libyan Reverses

(By Associated Press) LONDON, June 20.—German broadcasts boasted today that Adolf Hitler's desert army was ready to sweep into Egypt as bitter British disillusionment turned into demands that the house of commons air what went wrong in Libya.

Whether German reports that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was ready for a second phase of his offensive were true or mere propaganda, British reverses in Libya have made the threat to Egypt and the Suez an ominous reality.

Assured all along that success was within grasp, the British were totally unprepared for the sudden reversal in the wild Libyan fighting and for the explanation of military observers that again there was "too little" against overwhelming enemy might.

The Daily Mail, joining a chorus of newspaper criticism, demanded an inquest in parliament.

"The enemy knows why and how he won the battle," it declared. "We have a right to know how we lost it."

In broad terms, the unconsoling analysis of British military critics was that the British Eighth army lacked what it needed to stem Rommel's thrust—foresight to gauge the enemy's strength correctly, adequate armored equipment and the skill to use what it had to best advantage.

Specifically, they said the lessons of the Libyan campaign were that

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Myers of Kensington and was born April 6, 1894, in Kensington. She was a member of the Kensington-Christians church.

She is survived by her husband, William F. Cecil of Canton; a sister, Mrs. Esther Burt of Alliance; and her father, Thomas Myers.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Christian church in Kensington, in charge of Rev. Howard F. Miller. Burial will be in the Hanoverton Grove Hill cemetery.

Friends may call at the Maple funeral home in Kensington any time Sunday afternoon or evening.

Four Salem boys attending Buckeye Boys' State at Delaware are very active in the affairs of the organization, it was learned today in a letter to The News from Herbert Hansell, a member of the delegation.

Hansell was elected party chairman and campaign leader for the entire Federalist party which represents one-half the boys attending the affair. After the elections, he was named special executive assistant to the governor by Harold Bowers, who was elected to head the government.

Bill Beardmore was chosen a delegate to the Federalist state convention and was a member of the rules and order committee there. In the elections, Beardmore was named city auditor of his city.

Dick Culbertson was chosen as one of two men to present his city as a member of the Boys' State senate. He was also a delegate to the Nationalist party state convention.

Albert Kenst, the fourth member of the Salem party, was made special city tax commissioner by the state tax commissioner.

The boys stated that they expect to arrive home from Boys' State sometime Tuesday.

Tear Up Old Rails PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—One of the oldest railroad rights-of-way in the nation is being stripped of rails to aid the war effort.

The Office of War Information says the two-mile-long Avondale branch of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, idle six years, will yield enough scrap to build 25 medium tanks.

The original deed on the right-of-way was issued by William Penn. the OWI says, and the first rails were wooden.

MAP PLANS TO COMBAT AXIS

F. D. R. and Churchill Continue Conferences; No Comment

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 20.—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were believed today to be mapping counterblows to a desperate Axis summer offensive in Europe, Asia and Africa.

The White House continued the strict official silence imposed when the strategy conferences were announced Thursday night, but the official encouragement to speculate on invasion of the European continent, the grave turn of the war in Africa and the rising fury of conflict on the eastern front inspired to many in the capital that decisions were being made in the knowledge that Berlin and Tokyo already were sending new forces over a battle whose zero hour was drawing near.

The Allied high command, it was thought, would certainly have received advance intelligence of any remarkable German move in Europe.

Known of Russian War Observers pointed out that diplomatic sources in London had known of German troop movements for the Russian war several months before it started and that the British had tried to stem the German drive through the Balkans with troop convoys which had to be jammed weeks in advance.

Any large-scale change in German dispositions now, it was said, could hardly have been concealed from air reconnaissance or the eyes of the tens of millions of de-caded peoples in countries through which troop trains might have to pass. Most of the exiled governments in London have been able to keep in touch with sources in their division.

TWO DAYS SET TO REGISTER FIFTH GROUP

Saturday, June 27, Tuesday, June 30, Are Registration Days

16-20 YEAR-OLDS WILL BE ENROLLED

Immediate Furlough Program to Be Effective After July 1

Salem draft board officials today began to oil machinery for the fifth registration under the nation's selective service system.

The fifth registration will include all men who were born on or after Jan. 1, 1922, and on or before June 30, 1924, who have not heretofore registered.

President Roosevelt has set Tuesday, June 30, from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. for the registration.

Saturday, June 27, from noon to 5 p. m. has been set by Col. C. W. Goble, state draft director, as an additional registration day.

The additional day was set up for the purpose of enabling men to register who are, by reason of their employment or civilian activities, at a disadvantage in presenting themselves for registration on the following Tuesday.

Draft Group Leaves A large group of prospective soldiers left the Memorial building this morning for final physical examinations and possible induction into the service.

Although the High school band played a number of selections at the building prior to the men's departure, there was no formal parade. Among today's group were several men near the 40-year mark.

A record-breaking call is expected for the July quota, it was indicated here today.

Anticipating a large registration of young men June 27 and June 30, Clerk R. R. Woods of the draft board today called for volunteers to aid in enrolling the new group.

Woods reported that all occupational questionnaires mailed to the third registration group (Feb. 16) have been sent out and returned to the board. In the event that any man has not received an occupational questionnaire because of the fact that he may have changed his address, he is asked to contact the draft board.

Furlough Plan To Be Used COLUMBUS, June 20.—Men inducted into the army through the selective service law after July 1 will be granted 14-day furloughs automatically, state selective service.

Nazi Firing Squads Increase Their Toll

(By Associated Press) German firing squads today were reported executing a new peak of bloodshed in conquered Europe.

In London, the Polish government-in-exile said a new wave of mass executions had begun in Poland, with more and more women crumpling before the fusillades of Nazi execution squads. Forty persons, including 22 women, were said to have been taken from Warsaw prison and shot. Fifteen others, including 12 women, were reported hanged in Poznan.

At the same time, the German news agency DNB admitted that a sweeping purge of "anti-social elements"—meaning anyone who disagrees with the Nazis—had started in Vienna and the lower Danube Province of Austria.

DNB intimated the purge would embrace the entire German reich. The news agency declared "anti-social persons represent an element of unrest of the first order" and defined them as anyone who "owing to criminal, anti-state or querulous inclinations continually enters into conflict" with Nazi rule.

Thus, obliquely, the Germans gave the first intimation of smoldering dissatisfaction in Austria, which the Nazis seized in a ruthless coup in March, 1938.

SIGNALS FLASHED FROM COAST TOWERS ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 20.—Axis submarines were flashed signals from hotel windows along the Atlantic coast, Judge Thomas Fiddall, Atlantic City defense council chairman, asserted last night.

The Atlantic county judge said he had seen the signals reflected from hotels in Atlantic City and other shore resorts. "The flashing of lights from top floor windows was visible for miles," he told the 23rd annual convention of the New Jersey department, Disabled American Veterans.

"A stop was put to it—I guess it is safe to say that—but whether it is going on elsewhere I am not in a position to say."

BREAK UP GERMANY GERARD FORMULA

"Crush Spirit of Conquest" Forever, Urges Former Ambassador

NEW YORK, June 20.—(Wide World.)—Down in the canyon of Wall Street slight, gray-haired James W. Gerard is looking ahead to the day when war will end, and this is his formula for a lasting peace:

1. Break up the German reich into impotent atoms which never can coalesce into another dangerous union.

2. Crush the spirit of conquest so completely that it never can rise again.

3. Maintain world peace with an international police force.

The 74-year-old former ambassador to Germany during the first World war has a fighting spirit undimmed by the passing years. To him, peace is something not only to be won—but to be guarded jealously by force of arms so that no nation can wage war on another.

International Army Urged "The only possible solution to a lasting peace," said Gerard in an interview, "is an international army made up of the victorious nations, chiefly the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China."

And I suggest that Franklin D. Roosevelt be made its commander-in-chief."

Gerard warned the world for years of Germany's growing military might. Soon after Hitler came

OUTLINE PROGRAM FOR INCOME TAXES

WASHINGTON, June 20.—An ingenious but complicated scheme to compel individuals to shift gradually to payments of their federal income taxes out of each pay-check gained strong support today in the house ways and means committee.

Randolph Paul, tax adviser to Secretary Morgenthau, laid before the committee a plan, which members said they probably would approve in some form, involving deductions from pay envelopes and salary checks, beginning next January, of 10 per cent of an individual's tax liability—his salary minus exemptions—for that pay period.

Half of these automatic deductions would be applied against this year's tax liability due in 1943. The other half would accumulate in 1943 against the income tax payable in 1944.

Under the plan, individuals would be paying nothing but current taxes out of their current pay-checks within two years.

Jobless Benefits In County Are Reported

Jobless benefits to unemployed workers in the Salem area amounted to $10,197.99 during May. During the first five months of this year unemployed workers in this area have received $48,258.90.

New claims for benefits filed during May in this area, which includes Columbiana county, numbered 150, according to B. L. Flick, representative of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation for Columbiana county.

This number represents an increase of 64 per cent over April when 141 new claims were filed. The number of new claims filed in the state in May totaled 14,833, a drop of more than 24 per cent from April when 19,540 were received.

The average weekly benefit payment to totally unemployed workers in this area in May was $12.44. Flick said. An average weekly number of 154 persons received benefits in this area in May.

For the state the average weekly benefit payment in May was $12.64. The state average weekly number of benefit recipients was 27,990 in May, an 18 per cent drop from the April figure of 33,256. Total benefits payments in the state amounted to $1,385,887 last month, 15 per cent less than the April total of $1,637,798.

Flick pointed out, however, that the total benefit payments in the state for the first five months of 1942 totaled $9,258,990, an increase of 39 per cent over the $6,664,768 paid out in the similar period of 1941.

GERMANS SAY BLOW AIMED AT SMOLENSK

No Confirmation Is Heard From Russian Quarters, However

NAZIS HAMMERING SEVASTOPOL CITY

Hundreds of Thousands of Bombs Are Dropped On Port City

(By Associated Press) MOSCOW, June 20.—Keeping the enemy guessing as to their real intentions, the Russians remained silent today on a German report that the Red army had launched a huge new offensive against Smolensk, today as the Germans continued to exert enormous pressure in the smoke-obscured battle about Sevastopol in the Crimea.

(A BBC broadcast from London said the Russians had recaptured a large town on the Kalinin front in the sector north of Smolensk.)

The German report, as heard here, said Russian infantry in the central sector west of Moscow was attacking in waves with tank and infantry support, but there was no confirmation from any Soviet quarter.

It was recalled here, however, that when the Germans began their early May offensive on the Kerch peninsula in the Crimea, the Russians began their own offensive against Kharkov May 12 but said nothing about it officially for several days.

The Russians have been holding two salients which pointed toward Smolensk, 220 miles west of Moscow.

One extends through Dorogobuzh, 50 miles southeast of Smolensk and only 20 miles south of the Smolensk-Moscow highway.

The other runs to Toropez, 120 miles north of Smolensk and 40 miles east of Velikie Luki. A finger of this salient extends into White Russia between Velikie Luki and Smolensk.

Caught between the two salients are German-held Gzhatsk, 95 miles west of Moscow and Vyazma. The Russian lines extend to the outskirts of Rzhev to the north of Vyazma.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The British Broadcasting corporation quoted its Moscow correspondent, Paul Winterston, today as saying the "Germans have reached a high road leading to Sevastopol" and "the danger is very great." CBS heard the report.

"Throwing in reinforcements regardless of cost, they (the Germans) are now hammering the fortress from both south and east, and from across the mile-wide estuary to the north," the broadcast quoted him as saying. "They admit continued Russian resistance of the northern side of the harbor, and there is no confirmation of a German claim that shock troops have reached the docks."

The Germans dropped several hundred thousand bombs in a single morning, and have wedged a weight of men and metal into a position pointing dangerously at the heart of the city, he added.

The correspondent said the Russians estimated the Germans had lost 40,000 killed during the present attack, now in its third week.

45-65 DRAFT GROUP AWAITS JOB QUIZZES

COLUMBUS, June 20.—Selective service registrants in the non-military age group between 45 and 65 years old will receive their occupational questionnaires soon, state draft headquarters announced today.

Local boards have been instructed to distribute the questionnaires to the fourth registrants as soon as they have completed distribution to registrants of the first three registrations. Some boards are ready to begin mailing questionnaires to fourth registrants now.

The occupational questionnaires will be used in determining skills and vocational backgrounds of the registrants.

TRICK OF THE YEAR

News tricking out of Washington is to the effect that a sales tax has no more chance this year than Italy, that the proposal for a withholding tax is not arousing congressional enthusiasm and that a lot of assorted little nuisance taxes and revisions are being worked out to produce extra revenue—not enough, but some.

The trick of the year, if congress can carry it off, will be to pass a reasonably stiff tax bill without annoying any important minority of voters by adopting new taxes. Whatever important changes may be made in the national tax structure will be put off until after the election in November.

Thorough discussion has revealed clearly what some of the changes will be when the right time comes to adopt them. The income tax, getting heavier year by year, will have to be collected methodically at the source instead of billing taxpayers for it after they have spent the money. A sales tax will have to be used to cover the ground that income taxation can't cover—not because the sales tax is good or bad but because it is productive.

To provide for post-war necessities, corporations must be given financial leeway, such as might be provided by a credit based on their high wartime tax rates; otherwise, the goose that lays the golden eggs might be lost to the government entirely. And finally, taxes are going to have to be levied at a rate never dreamed of before to keep pace with spending at a rate never dreamed of before. It is not considered good form, however, to speak of these matters in 1942. This is an election year.

WHO HAS DISCOVERED WHAT?

Comparable only to the discovery by Democrats in 1932 that the Republicans should have averted the reaction to the boom is the discovery by the senate committee investigating the war program that businessmen should have begun to convert their factories to military needs earlier. "Certain $1 a year men within the bureau of industry branches," says the committee with that fruity sagacity characteristic of political second-guessers, "are unable to divorce themselves from their sub-conscious gravitation to their own interests."

This will not flabbergast the public. Suddenly it is clear to the public that nothing under the sun is quite so unimportant as what politicians have to say about producers. It would have been fine if the United States had begun to prepare for war during, say, the Coolidge administration. It would have been fine if it had begun to prepare in earnest long before Pearl Harbor. But for congressmen—some congressmen—to beat businessmen for not doing what neither of them believed was going to be necessary is absurd.

The Truman committee has turned up some valuable material in its investigation of the war program. But its discovery that businessmen failed to save the government from the consequences of its own miscalculations concerning the war is a reckless waste of Grade A applause. The only thing of any importance now is that the producers, after getting off to a late start, are making up some of the time that was lost.

MISCHIEF FOR IDLE HANDS

Welfare Director Sherwood's report on an 11 percent increase in the state's juvenile delinquents at Lancaster since the United States entered war reflects similar experience in Ohio during World War I and in Britain during the present war.

Apparent cause for wartime delinquency is an easing up of home supervision, due to preoccupation of adults with their wartime jobs. This theory is supported by a corresponding tendency of adult crime in the opposite direction. It seems to be a matter of mischief for idle hands.

Perhaps there is another contributory cause, also. The excitement that inevitably attends the war effort seems to call for an acceleration of activity—the flaming youth phenomenon of the last war. Unless the energy thus released is guided into proper channels, it may result in juvenile crime. If at the same time there happens to be a decrease in the number and size of channels open, as when playgrounds are closed and welfare programs are curtailed, the result quickly makes itself evident in the institutional census.

Ohio can number juvenile delinquency among the dozens of serious subsidiary problems created by the war—problems as serious in their long-range implications as some of those identified directly with the war effort.

SEN. TAFT'S TOO-EASY PLAN

Principal objection to Sen. Taft's plan for taking advantage of automatic deferment of married men by dividing all men into four classes is its deception. Selective service isn't that easy. Its principle cannot be applied equitably if local boards must assume at the outset that certain possibilities are barred from consideration, not because of their actual economic condition but because they have been divided arbitrarily into classes of dependency according to family, instead of financial, status.

Sen. Taft seems to believe that it would be advantageous if certain men now living in a state of suspense were relieved by classification in the group least likely to be called. That should be the responsibility of the men's own common sense; if there be more than a handful of male Americans left by this time who do not realize that military material rarely includes family men over 40, there probably wouldn't be any way to keep them from worrying. In fairness to men already drawn, the selective service act should be let alone.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, June 21

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows exceptional activity in all affairs in the realm of heart and home. Social, domestic, artistic, affectional and sentimental matters eclipse all other interests. It is probable this excitement may concern engagements, courtship or marriages. Spiritual affairs all thrive. In all affiliations be careful not to offend superiors, elders or employers.

Those whose birthday it is may have a particularly gay and happy as well as prosperous year in domestic, social, artistic, or emotional affairs, which will over-shadow all other interests and aspirations. These should flourish and give unending happiness. If there is determination not to offend employers or superiors.

A child born on this day should have outstanding artistic skill with fine creative talents and versatility. It may have a happy domestic life but not be on agreeable terms with employers or superiors.

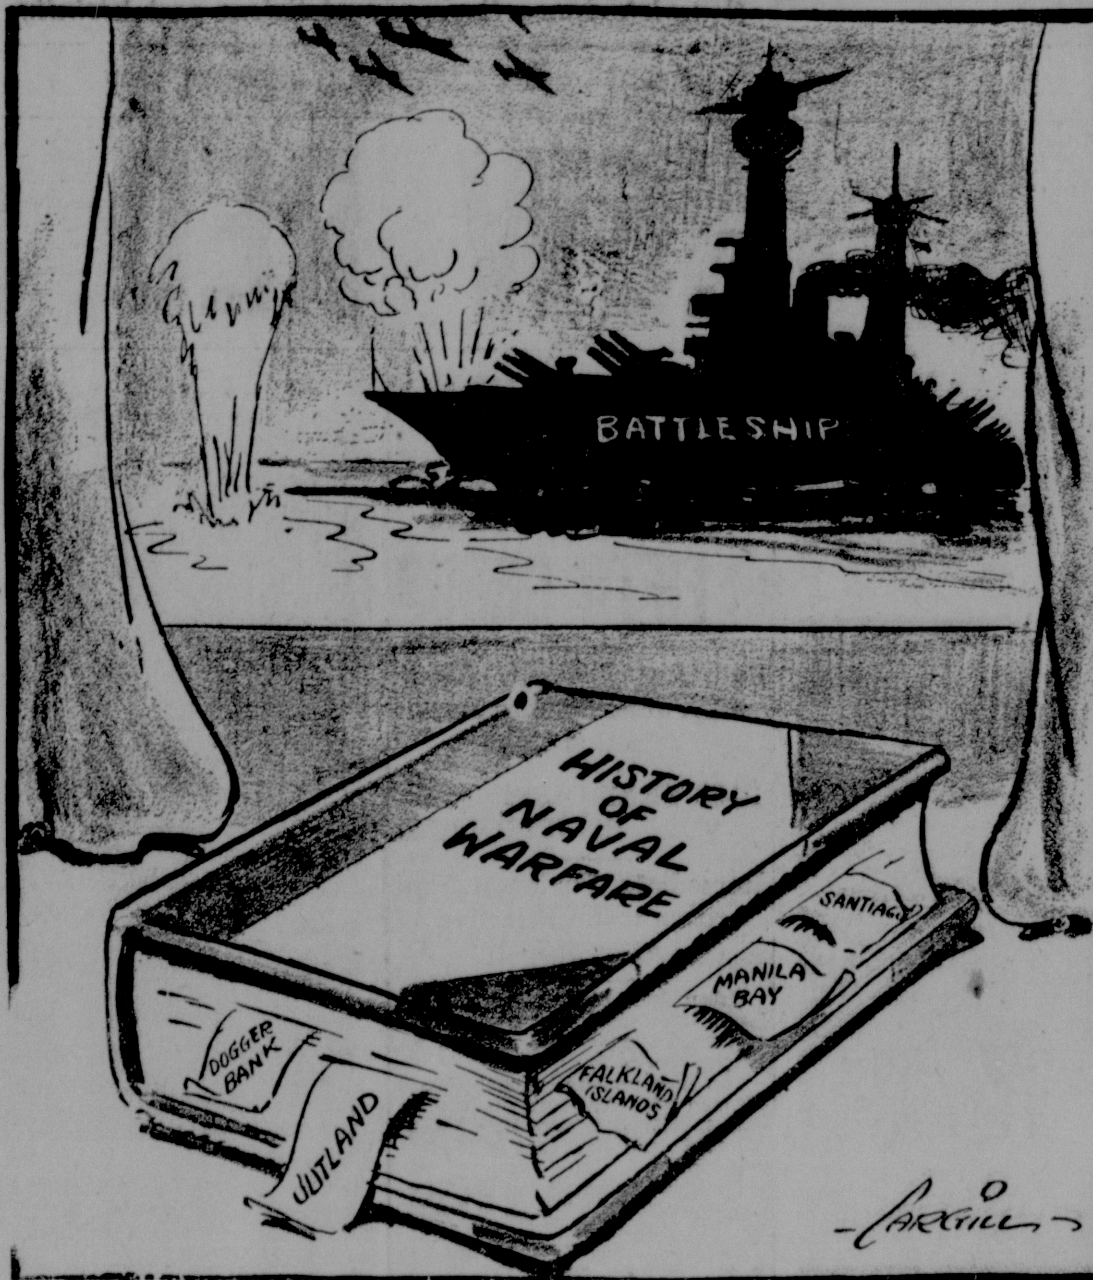

For Monday, June 22

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of surprising although solid events combining to give security and dependability to affairs generally and the fortunes. Strange or unforeseen developments may give quick and peculiar stimulus to static or crystallized conditions. New ventures as well as public projects are under fine impetus, but all are subject to unwise outlay.

Those whose birthday it is may not be surprised if sudden and strange impetus should give dynamic movement to stagnant and crystallized affairs, long static. New ventures as well as all sorts of public affiliations are under fortunate stimulus, but be careful not to overdo in outlay of funds and personal extravagance. Beware treachery and fraud. Elders assist in stabilizing the fortunes and furthering ambitions.

A child born on this day should have much solid ability, depth and shrewd insight, also much originality of thought.

ADHESIONS IN ABDOMEN

Some Congenital, Others Are Acquired

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I DO NOT believe we hear as much about adhesions in the abdomen as we used to because fashions change, but every once in a while somebody gets an idea that all their woes are due to adhesions rather than to vitamin deficiency.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

An adhesion occurs very frequently in the abdomen because the peritoneum which covers all the organs of the abdomen and lines the inside of the abdominal wall is very apt to form these bands of tissue.

There are two kinds of abdominal adhesions: one which is congenital or develops naturally in an individual with the development of the body, and the other which is acquired and follows injury or a surgical operation.

It is very tempting to ascribe all sorts of symptoms to adhesions and this was frequently done until a Boston physician made an elaborate study to show what the normal incidence of adhesions is. He found that seven women out of every ten and eight men out of every ten had some kind of adhesions in the abdomen.

Only a very small proportion of these people complained of any abdominal trouble and when they did, very few of them complained in the same way. For instance, the largest number of congenital adhesions is found in the transverse part of the large intestine. To some people this explained the cause of constipation and auto-intoxication and all the rest of the mumbo-jumbo. But the trouble with this explanation was that people who had the worst adhesions were the people who were freest from constipation and auto-intoxication.

Natural Adhesions

As age advances, more and more adhesions occur in the abdomen whether an operation is performed or not. These natural adhesions, which involve not only the large bowel but also the gallbladder, the appendix and the liver, can hardly ever be said to be responsible for any symptoms in these organs.

They are relatively simple and run true to form, lacking variety in type.

It was once the fashion, as I have said, to ascribe all sorts of dire sickness to these adhesions. Surgeons waded in and cut them out and sewed them over and named bands and kinks after themselves and got knighted for it and had a lovely time; it was a bloody period in surgical history.

The only time I ever saw a surgeon faint in an operating room was when a very nice fellow from Boston went with me to the clinic of a celebrated London surgeon. He said after he was revived, he just couldn't help feeling sorry for those innocent people. Surgeons have, however, learned some restraint about these fields.

The acquired adhesions following a surgical operation are very complex and hardly any two of them are exactly the same. Sometimes they can cause a great deal of trouble in the way of a chronic abdominal pain and even acute intestinal obstruction. Modern surgery, however, has developed means to reduce the possibility of the formation of these adhesions so that we are likely to hear less and less about them.

Questions and Answers

E. D.: Will X-ray show ulcers or cancer of the stomach? Will it also show the intestines and tell what may be the cause of constipation and gas in these regions?
Answer: Yes.

C. M. H.:—Is a mixture of lemon juice and soda water considered a good conditioner? What is the difference in the effect upon the system if it is taken while effervescent or after effervescing? What chemical change, if any, takes place in the solution itself after effervescence has stopped?

Answer: The term, "a good conditioner," is a little indefinite. I don't quite know what you mean. Lemon juice and soda water tend to flush the kidneys and it is often a help to digestion. There is no chemical change that occurs after effervescence has stopped. The effect of the effervescence is largely to make any drink more palatable and make it absorb somewhat more rapidly. The only thing that escapes is carbon dioxide gas.

C. H.:—Is it safe to have a spleen removed? Is it possible to have a tumor in the spleen? What can be done for an enlarged spleen?

Answer: In skillful hands, removal of a spleen is quite a safe operation. There are many different kinds of tumor of the spleen. The treatment of an enlarged spleen depends upon the cause; sometimes it is due to malaria, sometimes it can be reduced with the X-ray.

I Am An American
The following paragraphs are from a sermon by Dr. C. F. Walters, a Lutheran pastor, preached July 4, 1858.

"O blessed day, the day which witnessed the laying of the foundation for a nation in which freedom of religion and liberty of conscience were made a principle of its fundamental law!"

O blessed land in which we are permitted to enjoy this freedom! Even as our country guarantees civil freedom to the exercise of religion, so may religion bring heavenly blessing to this land!

But let us not be satisfied to enjoy this freedom of religion. God will demand a heavy reckoning from us for the manner in which we have employed this inexpressible benefit. Therefore let us as citizens of this country labor for the preservation of its freedom, manfully fight for it, and, if necessary, willingly shed our blood for it. Let us on our part do everything that it may remain a refuge for all who are persecuted by reason of their religion among all nations of the earth.

May the Lord bring to naught all the schemes of our enemies that are being plotted against our land and its liberties!

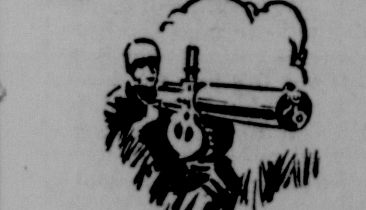

May He train unto Himself a pious, free, and happy people and ever place at its head virtuous men of wise counsel and of courageous action."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 50-caliber Browning machine gun is one of the most efficient short range weapons used by U. S. Fighting forces. It is effective at ranges up to 2,000 yards and fires about 600 forty-five caliber bullets per minute.

One of these guns costs about $1,500, while a thirty-caliber machine gun costs approximately $600. Our fighting forces need thousands of these rapid-fire guns. Even a small town or community can buy many of them by uniting in the purchase of War Bonds. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day will do the trick.

"There was a stupendous task given to the disciples by Jesus. This responsibility has been so large that they could not do it themselves, nor those who followed them, for the work is still being done by present disciples of Jesus. The carrying on of Christ's work must be shared by every Christian. If Christ's Kingdom is of any consequence to us, then as our supreme commander we must be willing to obey Him and do His will. The present dark clouds and shadows are evidence that the failure to make the world truly Christian will have serious consequences. As long as selfishness and greed, wickedness and worldliness control the hearts and lives of so many people there will be tears and blood to cure the world. The missionary task of every Christian is to present the claims and cause of Christ to all mankind."

Heart-to-Heart Message

This white celanese jersey blouse has softness creneled self-collor is detailed with scarlet heart motifs, as is the sailor hat.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS is one of the biggest blouse years ever recorded in fashions, and more than ever it's true that one good blouse is half of several dresses.

A tailored shirt of stout stuff is, of course, party to suits, slacks, shorts. A tailored blouse of fragile sheer doubles for suits, dinner pajamas and evening skirts. The endless variations of the peasant blouse line up with practically every nether item in a woman's wardrobe when all designs are counted in... and believe it or not, more than one of them is efficient and pretty used as a summer bedjacket. Going overboard for a blouse collection is not extravagance but good buying sense.

Boost Akron Bond Sales AKRON, June 20.—Actress Marlene Dietrich and 20 "Minute Maids" from the University of Akron travel in jeeps through the city today to promote the sale of war bonds and stamps.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Aware at last, that this business of bombs falling on American cities is more than just a faint possibility, Mr. and Mrs. America are beginning to make plans for home-living during emergencies.

Paramount in their minds is the food question. Just now, they ask, should the family eat if public utilities are shut off, and the grocer down the street has decided to stay home for a few days, or at least until he is sure that enemy raiders have been blasted from the skies and the "All Clear" signal is around to stay for awhile.

American Red Cross nutritionists offer this advice: Stock up a "war pantry," and be sure that it contains the kinds of food that will supply the energy necessary to keep the spirits from flagging.

To feed a healthy adult for a week during such emergencies the Red Cross nutritionists suggest the following foods:

Milk Heads List Two tall tins of unsweetened milk. Mixed with one part water, this will give two quarts of milk.

4-H CLUB NEWS Junior Handics The Junior Handics 4-H club met recently at the home of Mrs. Bessie Campbell on the Ellsworth rd.

Ruth Sox gave a demonstration on first aid. Donna Jean Lippitt gave a demonstration on sewing, after which games were enjoyed. A lunch was served by the associate hostesses, Donna Jean Lippitt, Vera Sox and Naomi Capel.

The next meeting will be held July 2 at the home of Geraldine Hively.

Friendly Group The sixth meeting of the Friendly Group 4-H club was held last evening with a wiener roast at Centennial park.

The meeting was opened with song and roll call, which was answered with names of birds. Mary Garloch was welcomed as a new member. Helen Rhinehart was a guest. Virginia Shaffer gave a demonstration on measuring.

Following the business meeting baseball was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held July 3 at the home of Beverly Ripple.

Silver Thimble The Silver Thimble 4-H club was entertained June 9 at the home of Miss Twila Yates with 11 members and two guests present.

Plans were made for health examinations and also a wiener roast, the date to be announced later.

A salad demonstration was given by Virginia McArthur and Twila Yates. Material was furnished by Virginia McArthur, Twila Yates and Edith Sanders and was judged by the club.

The next meeting will be an all day session, June 23, at the home of the advisor, Mrs. Willis McArthur. Members are asked to bring their projects. They will be assisted by Miss Erma Ramsayer.

Milk, by the way, is the best all-round food there is.

One pound of whole grain crackers.

One can of pork and beans. There are lots of food value here; besides, it sticks to the ribs.

One tin of meat, preferably pork, beef, spam, or the like. No chicken here. It's too delicate.

One-half pound of store cheese. There are few foods as nourishing as cheese.

One small jar of peanut butter. Besides taking the place of butter, it is an excellent source of Vitamin B and iron.

One package of dried fruit, such as raisins, prunes and apricots, to provide the all-important Vitamin A and B, plus iron.

A chocolate milk bar, necessary because of its high caloric value.

A can of vegetables, preferably peas, beans, corn or asparagus. Vegetables which can be eaten cold are first choice, since heat may be cut off by enemy action.

These emergency war rations, Red Cross nutritionists say, are enough to keep the average citizen from having starvation pains, and they will provide the necessary vitamins and calories.

Don't Forget Baby But, if more is desired by gourmets during emergencies, the nutritionists suggest adding such items to the larger as a tin of cocoa, dried soups which can be made by mixing with water, instant coffee or tea, nuts of all kinds, tinned loaves of cake, nut bread or Boston brown bread.

If there is an invalid or a baby in the family, by all means, Red Cross nutritionists warn, keep some strained baby foods on hand.

One other suggestion. Be careful not to keep any foods in galvanized iron or copper containers, which poison the food and produce serious consequences for the unsuspecting eater.

All of the foods in the Red Cross "war pantry" can be obtained from the neighborhood grocer. They won't take up too much room, and they will fill the breach in case of attack, providing, of course, Junior doesn't raid the pantry before the bombers raid the nation.

Japs In U. S. May Solve Farm Labor Shortages WASHINGTON, June 20.—Secretary Wickard said today the agriculture department was considering plans to use Japanese evacuated from the west coast to help meet farm labor shortages in the interior.

Whether these plans work out, he said, will depend largely on the attitude of various state governments toward the Japanese.

Wickard, in a discussion of the farm labor situation, said also that the government might have to pay for the transportation of migrant workers from one crop area to another.

"The migrants used to transport themselves," he said, "but now their tires are wearing out and gasoline is becoming scarce in some areas."

CRIME AT CASTAWAY by EDITH BRISTOL

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

I had a very good reason for changing my tactics with regard to Harry Craven—but it was a reason I didn't want anyone to know; not even Mr. Craven.

So when Kobe, acting now as houseboy, instead of valet, tapped softly at my door and told me Mr. Craven was downstairs, I put down my little blue diary, powdered my nose and put on my smiling face.

Right now, I wanted to make Mr. Craven like me. So I fixed up my hair and dabbed lipstick on the added perfume behind my ears.

He met me at the living room door and took both my hands in his, his sharp, black eyes looked deep into mine—and since I was putting on an act in liking him, I couldn't help feeling that he gave me good support. He had a carnation in his buttonhole, and his gray suit was nicely pressed, and altogether he was dressed for the part of a gentleman making an afternoon call. I wondered how much—if any—information I was going to get out of him, and I smiled as engagingly as I knew how.

Harry said all the conventional things. How he'd sympathized with us in all we'd gone through, how he'd seen us at the inquest in San Francisco, but felt it kinder not to intrude on our grief. I just let my hands stay in his and looked up into his eyes while he said them. He asked after Martha.

"She's up at the stables. The winter show season is coming on, you know, and she has been away a lot lately. She has several entries she's counting on."

"And Lance?"

"He's off somewhere with the sheriff. It's rather lonesome."

I expected Harry to rise to my bait. But I didn't look for him to swallow it so immediately. He pulled me down beside him on the davenport, still holding both my hands in his, and burst into such an outpouring of affection as I never heard before—nor since.

"Ever since you came to Castaway, Gerry, I've been so crazy about you that I can't think about anything else.... your courage, your loyalty, your charm." He almost ran out of breath, and I wanted to say, "Oh yeah?" but didn't.

"You're wonderful. You're the most beautiful girl in the world. I adore you, Gerry—"

"Now, now, Harry—"

But he ran on—"Listen, dear, I'm almost certain that the directors of the company are going to make me manager in Gregg's place—after all, I've been filling it for months—so I can ask you now."

"Ask me what?" I blurted.

"Ask you to marry me. We could drive to the city today. Fly to Reno, be married tonight. Say you will, Gerry—if you only know how I love you."

"All this is terribly flattering, Harry. You're mighty nice to feel this way—but you don't love me and you know I don't love you."

"But I do, Gerry. I do. I want to take care of you. And I'll buy you everything you want."

I had started to play a game with Harry Craven to see how much I could find out about something I had to know. How could I ever think it would get out of hand like this?

"Don't be foolish, Harry. We hardly know each other."

"But I know you. I tell you I've been wild about you ever since the first day you came to Castaway." It was as though he had memorized a part.

It rang false. I was beginning to be embarrassed. Suppose Martha came in—or Lance—in the midst of this fervid scene. I pulled myself away, slipped my hands from his grasp.

"Let's stop this pretense, Harry. You don't love me, you know it and I know it and there's no reason why you should. You aren't fooling me one bit."

The expression on his face changed—ever so slightly—but I saw it change. "I'm sorry," he said. "Sorry if I have offended you."

"You haven't offended me. Let's forget it ever happened. I am sure you had some reason for asking me—and thank you for the compliment. But the answer is—No!"

He bowed, stiffly, and left the room. I heard his car drive away. And I stood at the window, looking out over the ocean, until Martha came home. I was trying to figure it out. Why had he asked me to marry him? What did he want? Should I mention it to Martha? Or keep it secret and see if events gave me the answer to the puzzle?

Between us, Harry Craven and me, stood a stalemate. I wanted information from him. I had been willing to act a friendliness I did not feel in order to get that information. And he had been willing to pretend a love for me that I was certain he did not feel. But what for? The more I wondered, the less I could tell the answer.

I was still wondering when Lance rang from Gallina. "There's a bird here that's being held by the constable for questioning. He answers the description of a hobo that called at Durfee's house one morning last week and caused some trouble, threatening to get even with Durfee when he ordered him off the place. We want to look into it. Will you be afraid if we don't come alone early?"

"Certainly not," I replied. "I'll ask your aunt."

"Lance wants to know if you'll be afraid here if he and Sydney stay late in Gallina?"

Martha laughed. "Tell him I've lived here alone before he was born—and now that I've got him back from the city, I'm not afraid of anything."

I repeated her message. Lance said they might be very late, to call them at the sheriff's office if we needed them, and hung up.

We talked a while in Martha's sitting room before the fire and it was not late when I told her good night and went upstairs to my little room at the end of the corridor. I am not timid—but it was lonesome to pass Estelle's room with the door closed. To know that she would never open it again.

The doors to Lance's room and the room used by Craven when he stopped at the ranch over night, and Sydney's room were all open—and the knowledge that two of these would soon be occupied gave a feeling to the upper floor that was a little more cheerful. But I was conscious of the fact that I was alone in that part of the big house and shook it off as a foolish weakness and hoped as quickly as I could into bed.

I don't know how long I'd been asleep when something awakened me.

I sat upright in bed and listened. The sound—I couldn't make out what it was—came from the study beneath my room and was coming through the window. I listened intently. . . . It was the sound of metal on metal. Would anyone else hear it? I wondered.

Then I answered my own question. Martha's room was in the opposite wing, across the wide, open patio. The houseboys slept beyond the kitchen. The cook and his wife above the garage. I was the only person who could hear this disturbance—that is, unless the men had come home. I tiptoed to my door and opened it, the tiniest crack.

The night light burned dimly in the upper hall. That meant they were still out. I closed my door and crept back to the window, still straining my ears for the sound below.

Now I knew what it was. It was someone breaking into the locked cabinet in Walter Gregg's study. The cabinet where the business papers were filed. How long ago it seemed that I had filed them there.

I could feel my heart pounding so hard it seemed to me whoever was downstairs could hear its beat. My pulse pounded in my ears and my cheeks burned with excitement.

The upstairs telephone was in the hall—. If I called for help, the intruder would get away. If I only had the gun Mrs. Baldwin had talked about!

The rasping of metal continued, now loud, now softer below me. If I was going to act, I must act quickly before the marauder finished his job and was gone.

I acted.

I acted—but I acted on impulse. And foolishly enough, as it turned out.

I tiptoed across my bedroom and carried my bedside lamp, unlighted, to the window ledge. There I tipped it so it would throw a beam straight on the window below—and anyone escaping through the window would pass through its light.

Then I fumbled in the drawer of my dressing table—it takes longer to tell it than it did to do it—hard to find something solid and not too large. Something compact—the very thing!

Leaning out the window I took a careful aim at the pane beneath me—there was just enough pale moonlight for that—moving so stealthily that I knew I would not alarm the intruder until he felt the crash of my round metal missile.

I'd smash the glass, he must run out, as he did so, I'd switch on my light and see who, as he must have come, through the window and not by way of the house nor through the long windows of the passage opening on the patio.

With all the force I could summon I threw the compact. I heard it smash the glass, the sound of a man's voice, clatter of metal on metal. I reached to switch on my lamp—tripped on its long electric cord and fell, sprawling on the floor!

As I struggled to pick myself up, I could hear the noise of someone scrambling through the window below me. Footsteps running across the gravel of the yard. A motor picking up and an automobile moving away.

PHALANX DEFEATS SAXONS IN OTHER CLASS A CONTEST

Wayne Hahn Allows Recs Four Hits; Loses On Error

The Recreation practically buried Jacksons second round chances as they edged the servicemen, 1-0, the Centennial park last night. Herb Brown took the mound for the first round champs in the absence of Johnny Zines who was hurling in Youngstown.

Brown allowed eight safe blows but managed to keep them in enough spaced that he was never in any serious trouble. Wayne Hahn turned in another masterpiece as he permitted but four hits but he was defeated when the Recs combined a walk, a hit and an error to bring in the game's lone tally in the fourth frame.

Dick Lantz, Dick Boughton and Carl Capel each pounded out two safeties to lead Jacksons while Hahn gave no member of the Recs more than one hit. Jacksons were guilty of five errors, two each by Pitcher Hahn and Third Baseman "Doggie" Scullion. The Recs had two errors.

In the second game, the Phalanx pulled one out of the well-known sack to shut out the Saxons, 5-0, on Bennett's seven-hit hurling. The fraternity men shovled across three runs in the second frame and another pair in the seventh.

Lefty Schmidt led the attack in one of the big innings, smashing out a circuit clout, Wally Linder and Mary Pauline each collected two hits to lead the Saxons' attack. No member of the winning team tagged Pauline's offerings for more than one safe knock.

LOUIS' DEPARTURE TO KANSAS DELAYED

YAPHANK, N. Y., June 20.—Private Joe Louis, world's heavyweight boxing champ, nursed a small "mouse" under his right eye today as a result of a surprise exhibition match at Camp Upton last night.

Louis, who had been told he couldn't fight again until he completed his basic army training, tangled with spartanate George Nicholson in an unexpected feature of an exhibition show for civilians and soldiers.

The champ was supposed to have left Camp Upton for Fort Riley, Kansas, yesterday, but orders were countermanded to permit him to fight.

The counter order, it was learned, came directly from President Roosevelt.

GOLF STARS MAKE FARCE OF CHICAGO BENEFIT TOURNEY

Mike Turnesa Leads With 131; Ben Hogan Goes Into Second Slot

By GAYLE TALBOT

CHICAGO, June 20.—United States Golf association officials, having seen one contestant round Ridgemoor in 62 and a dozen others turn in equally silly scores, are congratulating themselves for not recognizing the Hale America benefit tournament as the National Open.

The last two days have been exciting in a way, and the birdies and eagles undoubtedly will continue through tomorrow, but the players themselves have been the first to insist it isn't related even faintly to championship golf. U. S. G. A. would have been mighty embarrassed if it had yielded to urging and run up its official flag.

Ridgemoor has proved far too easy for the top stars. Even Mike Turnesa, most phenomenal member of the golfing family at present, thought it funny when he scored a second round 66—six under par—to go with his 65 of the previous day.

"It's a little tough on Ben Hogan," he laughed. "He shoots a par 72 and then a 62 and I'm still leading him three strokes."

Hogan's 62 yesterday made Ridgemoor look like a pitch-and-putt layout. Ben, himself, conceded it wasn't his greatest golf. It was just a question of having 11 one-putt greens, he said.

"62 a Mistake"—Hogan
"As a matter of fact, that 62 was all a mistake," Hogan chuckled. "I thought they were going to halve the field after 36 holes and I was giving it everything for fear I wouldn't even qualify for the last two rounds. Now I find everybody is going to play the full 72 holes."

"Somebody ought to tell me these things."

As they started the third 18-hole round today, Mike Turnesa stood a good chance of hauling down first prize of $1,000. But he couldn't afford to slip to anywhere near par golf because the field still was close.

Tied with 36-hole totals of 135—a stroke behind Hogan—were two dangerous competitors, Horton Smith and Lawson Little. Smith, the game's greatest putter, might take a lot of beating on Ridgemoor, where putting is everything.

At 136 were Jimmy Demaret and Herman Barron. At 137 Denny Shute, Oris Crisman and Mike Sipula. At 138, Harold "Jug" McSpaden, Dick Metz, Johnny Dawson, Bill Dear and Wilford Wehrle, the last two amateurs; and at 139 were Byron Nelson, Ky. Laffoon, Lloyd Mangrum and Buck White, eight strokes off the dizzy pace.

A booklet entitled "Enjoy Yourself in Ohio" is now available and copy may be had by mailing a request to the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission, Wyandotte Building, Columbus, Ohio.

TRIBE EDGES NEW YORK AS HOCKETT STARS; MEL "HOT"

Stocky Gardener Reveals Quitting Team After Last Night's Tilt

CLEVELAND, June 20.—Rookie Oris Hockett, whose authentic bat gave Cleveland the jump on the New York Yankees in their current hostilities, disclosed today that he had quit the Indians this week, but changed his mind later after talking with his wife.

The stocky outfielder's home run and triple off Lefty Gomez drove home two runs and permitted him to score a third in the Tribe's 5 to 4 triumph over the world champions last night, but except for Mary Katherine Hockett he might have been on his way back to a factory job.

After Wednesday's night's game with Washington here, the former Dayton (O.) Mid-Atlantic league fly chaser went to Manager Lou Boudreau and said: "Well, Lou, that was it. Goodbye and good luck to you and the rest of the boys."

Hockett, an expert machinist who had quit minor league baseball several times because he could earn more in a factory, said he could make as much now in industry as in baseball.

"I think I owe it to my family to make the choice."

But after talking with Mrs. Hockett, Oris said he learned to his surprise that she approved of his playing baseball, and changed his mind. He told Boudreau he would stay if Cleveland's 24-year-old manager still wanted him.

Hockett Homers
Boudreau did—and last night Hockett lined a lustrous triple to right center with Roy Weatherly on base in the first inning, and scored on an infield out. Leading off the fifth, he drove another Gomez pitch into the right field stands of Cleveland stadium for a round tripper, and made it a perfect night by walking on his other two trips to the platter.

Mel Harder gave the Yankees only four hits, but one of them was Phil Rizzuto's smash into the left field stands with another Yankee on base. The Indians collected only five, themselves, but Hockett's clubbing was the difference.

Al Smith was nominated to make it two straight today over the Yankees, who intended to use big Ernie Bonham.

PRIMM LEADS REDS STEER TO VICTORY

The Red Steers upset the Book Store, 9-3, in a Class B tilt at Centennial park last night as John Lanney pitched a three-hit game. The Steers grabbed a 2-1 lead in their half of the opening frame and gradually extended it until they had the game sewed up.

Jimmy Primm dropped in two singles to lead the Steers' seventh-inning attack. The Book Store hurt its own cause with eight errors, most of them coming with men on the base paths. Walt Brian collected two of the three hits off Lanney to pace the losers.

In the other Class B contest, Smiths gained their second win of the year, a forfeit triumph over the Baptists.

homeland and would get such information.

London reports that Prime Minister Churchill was seeking quick United States help in stabilizing the Mediterranean front were taken to indicate that the British believed a tremendous German drive against Suez was impending, if not already under way.

As for the Pacific, word from China that the Japanese were preparing a blow against Siberia was being taken with increasing seriousness.

Set Up Advance Bases

The exploratory Japanese sallies against the Aleutians, it was said, might well have been made primarily to establish reconnaissance bases. These bases would be used to send word of any large-scale American convoys bearing aid for the Red armies in Siberia.

Observers assessing the world military situation saw American production power slowly tipping the scales in any long range view of the war. They believed the Axis, the effort, would try for a quick victory.

The immediate task of the President and the prime minister was pictured as that of distributing available strength to meet Axis thrusts and developing allied counter-drives.

BREAK UP GERMANY GERARD FORMULA

"Crush Spirit of Conquest" Forever, Urges Former Ambassador

to power he sensed the war that was to come—and shouted alarms that went unheeded.

As early as 1934 he declared that war was on the way; it wasn't so much Germany's actual rearmament that disturbed him as "the rearming of the old spirit of conquest among the people" which he had seen bloom under Kaiser Wilhelm.

And then when his predictions came true, he advocated that the United States help wipe out the Nazi menace. Speaking before a Brooklyn Sunday school union assembly in 1940, Gerard urged immediate United States entry into the war, and added: "If eventually we don't win, we ought to be in this war. If not, we're cooked."

A few months later he was supporting the administration's aid to Britain bill and told a senate committee: "Don't think that if Germany wins she is going to send a ship over here bearing garlands and flowers. They hate us."

No. 1 Nazi Foe

If the Nazis keep a card index file on their special enemies, then the name of Gerard undoubtedly is high on the list, for the onetime diplomat has been unsparing in his personal campaign to arouse his people against the Hitler regime.

In private life a kindly, friendly, easy-going man retired from active law practice, Gerard is tough and realistic in his views toward the war and the peace that will follow.

"There are too many people painting rainbows of the world after the war," he said. "First, we've got to win the war. We'll win, but it will be a hard and bitter struggle."

"But after it is won, we should insist that all the occupied countries be restored."

"What must be done with Germany? That is the greatest problem. The Germans must be rendered impotent as a military threat, but you can't assassinate 85,000,000 people even though they have assassinated Czechs, Poles, Yugoslavs, Greeks, and Jews and hold a million and a half Frenchmen in slavery."

Gerard favors the creation of a Danubian empire composed of Austria, Hungary and possibly a slice of Bavarian Germany, with perhaps a Haapsburg on a restored throne.

"Eastern Germany should be given to Poland. France should have her old territory, and the northern part of Germany should be given to Denmark."

Hits Self-Determination

"We want to keep away from the old theory of self-determination of the peoples. That's what caused the trouble after the last war to a large degree. To follow out this thought logically, there are several countries in Pennsylvania which would go to Poland, since their population is predominantly Polish."

Gerard has no patience with those he calls "starry-eyed idealists."

"They talk of universal brotherhood, of kindness to Germans, and a free-trade utopia with all tariffs removed. But there is great danger in this picture of a brave new world. If the people of many nations expect this state of affairs, they are going to be bitterly disappointed and hostile when they find the old barriers haven't been removed."

"How can you remove them without destroying our standards of living? A German economist, Frederick List, had the answer to this a century ago when he said: 'You cannot have free trade until you have the same standard of living in all parts of the world—or else you will be drawn to the level of the lowest standard.'"

ASK AIR BLITZ TO ROUT MOSQUITOES

BURTON, June 20.—An appeal for an air blitz to strike mosquito hordes that have made life "unbearable" for Burton (Geauga county) citizens has been sent to the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Washington.

The request for an airplane to spray insecticide on nearby swamps was made yesterday by Mrs. Helen Laughlin, wife of Dr. W. M. Laughlin, a licensed pilot who has just been appointed adjutant of squadron 1 of the civil air patrol at Lost Nation airport, Willoughby.

"The mosquitoes have become unbearable," Mrs. Laughlin said. "One can't work in the garden. I went out to cut pecan nuts, and as I jarred a bush it was like stirring a bee hive. They cling to your clothes and get into the house. We can't keep our houses shut all summer, so I asked Washington for a plane."

County Agricultural Agent Charles A. Haas said an excess of rain may have accounted for the increase of mosquitoes that breed in neighboring low lands around the Cuyahoga river.

9,025 Pounds of Sugar
Are Certified In Lisbon

LISBON, June 20.—Graham Kearney, chairman of the Lisbon rationing board, which yesterday ceased issuing sugar certificates for rationing, for the present, announced that housewives of the village had been granted 9,025 pounds of sugar for the rationing of staples and cereals.

Luring the allotment period for rationing sugar, 889 housewives received certificates, for which the average allowance was 10 1/4 pounds each.

organization of war war price and rationing boards. The only difference is that the board will be consolidated to the point where one board will have enough population to serve to justify the employment of some paid personnel to do the clerical and administrative work. I am, therefore, turning the liberty of turning this (the Salem plan) over to Wilson G. Stapleton of this office who is in charge of this specific line."

Board Gets No Pay

Up to now the rationing board and all workers have served without compensation. Board members will continue to serve without pay it is understood, along with volunteer executive officers, but that Salem will have an ice with paid clerks, eventually, to service the north end of the county, is entirely possible, Taylor says.

The present plan is to reduce the number of boards in the county to three or four.

Post War Tax Credits Proposal Turned Down

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The house ways and means committee, although it has adopted the principle of post war tax credits to corporations, nevertheless rejected today the first such specific proposal to come to a vote.

Neither Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) nor Representative Cooper (D-Tenn.) would divulge details of the rejected plan, and Cooper told newsmen who sought an explanation of it, "it is too complicated for me to give."

Doughton said only that a plan submitted by the treasury and the committee's own staff of experts had been defeated.

Crewmen of Lexington Particular In Rescue

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 20.—Crewmen of the Aircraft Carrier Lexington, sunk by the Japanese, deliberately remained in Coral sea waters until a rescue vessel of their own choice arrived, a survivor related today.

"If a boat from a destroyer came along to pick us up," said Carl Ferrante, aviation machinist's mate, "we kept right on swimming because we didn't want to let our destroyers—they're too tough riding. Most of the fellows, including myself, kept on swimming and waited for cruisers."

Ferrante was in the water an hour and a half.

Rubber "Mining" Grows Into Popular Pastime

COLUMBUS, June 20.—Rubber "mining" has become Ohio's favorite wartime sport.

News got around in three cities of rich strikes in dumps and on the site of an old rubber plant—and the rush was on.

Claim-jumping adults, swooping down on finds staked out by boys and girls, turned up so much rubber that a salvage official said the 6 million pounds of old rubber already collected in the Buckeye state might be doubled by the end of the month.

The richest vein was at Youngstown where residents dug for 200 to 400 tons of crude rubber dumped into a lot after a fire at the Republic Rubber Co. in 1936.

WHAT WAS WRONG? ENGLAND ASKING

Parliament Inquest Asked As Result of Libyan Reverses

The British needed more of the United States' 28-ton tanks and that even superior air strength over desert battlefields cannot be made a dominant factor.

"Quite simply and bluntly," the Evening News summed up Britain's repeated frustrations in Libya, "the reason is that from the beginning we have underestimated the cunning, strength, resources and recuperative power of the enemy."

Heading For Egypt?

Even now, it appeared, the Germans may be striking swiftly for the Egyptian frontier without stopping for an assault on Tobruk, the Libyan seaport 80 miles from the border, whose isolated defenders have strengthened their position.

While front line reports indicated the Italians may be digging in for a siege on a line west of Tobruk, the German column which took Gambut was reported pushing eastward along the coast and keeping pace with another force further inland.

The British, meanwhile, strengthened their positions behind the Egyptian frontier and thrust out mechanized patrols from the south to harass the flanks of the German columns.

THREE REASONS WHY YOUR FURS SHOULD BE CLEANED EVERY YEAR!

Of all the clothes you own, a Fur Coat is your most valuable investment and should be protected against deterioration. By having it cleaned once a year, here's how you and your Furs benefit.

1. PROLONGS LIFE AND BEAUTY OF FURS.

Even though your furs may look perfectly clean, laboratory tests definitely prove that a fur coat gathers and absorbs six times as much dirt and grime as a cloth coat during a season's wear. ReVitalise cleaning assures longer life and lasting beauty.

2. PREVENTS CRACKING OF PELTS

Dirt and grime in a fur coat lodge into the pores of pelts, clogging them, causing the pelts to become dry and brittle. This results in ripping and cracking of delicate leathers.

3. GUARDS YOUR HEALTH.

Fur is an excellent breeding ground for germs. An annual cleaning completely eliminates any possibilities of injury to your health.

ice headquarters announced today. Col. C. W. Goble, state director of selective service, said the new procedure would be accomplished by transferring inducted men to the enlisted reserve corps immediately following the induction and then senders recalling him to active service at the end of the 14-day period.

The present furlough procedure is left to the discretion of the local board. Colonel Goble reported that the army would furnish transportation, meals and lodging of all such reservists under the new law enroute to the city in which their local board is located and from that point back to the reception center at the end of the furlough.

He pointed out, however, that there would be no change in the present procedure for delivery of registrants to the induction station by the local board, or the return of rejected men.

Any inducted man who does not desire the 14-day furlough will be forwarded directly from the induction center to a reception center.

AIR RAID PROGRAM PLANNED IN LISBON

LISBON, June 20.—Lisbon Village council, at the request of the Ohio Defense council, has enacted emergency legislation authorizing air raid protection and blackout at any time it may deem necessary.

It is proposed to hold trial blackouts and air raid drills in the near future in order that the citizens may be familiarized with the procedure, and the village prepared in case of an emergency.

Supt. of Schools H. C. Leonard, who was recently appointed air raid warden of the village by Mayor G. C. Rauch, has been in Columbus the past week attending a special school for air raid wardens, and is expected to organize an auxiliary corps to function in blackouts to insure air raid protection.
